

Ox-PAQ Update: The quarterly newsletter of the Ox-PAQ Initiative

Welcome to the eleventh edition of Ox-PAQ Update. News from the last three months is given below:

- Cognitive interviews to assess the usability and acceptability of the e-based Ox-PAQ are underway. The interviews are being conducted with people with motor neurone disease, multiple sclerosis and Parkinson's disease. Early indications from participants have been very positive and we anticipate these interviews being completed in the New Year.
- Our manuscript detailing the psychometric analysis of the Ox-PAQ is currently under review by the open access journal Patient Related Outcome Measures. Further details on the progress of this article will be provided in our next newsletter.
- Our second Ox-PAQ abstract of 2015 was presented in November at the 22nd World Congress of Neurology, which took place in Santiago, Chile. The abstract has been published in Journal of the Neurological Sciences and can be found at the following link:
