Report Academic Visit HeLEX

This is to report on my academic visit at the HeLEX Centre for Health, Law and Emerging Technologies at the University of Oxford, United Kingdom, in October 2018.

I would like to thank the HeLEX team represented by Professor Jane Kaye for welcoming me, and the Digital Society Initiative and the Faculty of Law at the University of Zurich making this possible.

The idea of learning and discussing the topic "Dynamic Consent" brought me to the HeLEX Centre for an academic visit - I could not have done any better.

During my stay the whole team was at my disposal almost continuously for exchange, discussion and above all for my many questions. Furthermore I was given the opportunity of presenting and debating my project "Dynamic Consent in the environment of the Swiss Human Research act". Moreover, thanks to the friendly support of the HeLEX team, I was able to conduct further interviews at the Botnar Research Centre and gain important insights to the IT implementation of a dynamic consensus process.

This and the various debates in the uniquely stimulating framework did not only answer questions but raised important ones, made me take up new suggestions, gave the opportunity to discuss critical points, but also actually and profitably advance my project.

In addition, I was able to immerse myself in a wonderfully stimulating and warm atmosphere. Oxford and its peculiarity in many ways does not make it difficult to experience moments that do not exist in other places. Those who are lucky enough to be connected to the HeLEX Centre can't help but consider themselves as privileged.

My project and I personally could not have profited more from such a visit than I did at HeLEX.
