

The Richard Doll Seminars in Public Health and Epidemiology

Nuffield Department of Population Health, University of Oxford

Trinity Term (April to June) 2017 at 1-2pm
Lecture Theatre, Richard Doll Building, Old Road Campus

-
-
- 25th April Professor Franco Sassi
Business School, Imperial College London and Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), Paris
Incentives, Choice and Public Health Policy
- 2nd May Professor Gregory Lip
Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences, University of Birmingham
Stroke prevention in atrial fibrillation: assessing risk and simple decision-making in everyday clinical practice
- 9th May Professor Sir Andy Haines
Department of Social and Environmental Health Research & Department of Population Health, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine
Safeguarding health in the Anthropocene Epoch
- 16th May Professor Majid Ezzati
School of Public Health, Imperial College London
Measuring and visualising worldwide trends in cardiovascular risk factors
- 23rd May Associate Professor Peter Scarborough
Nuffield Department of Population Health, University of Oxford
Predicting and evaluating the impact of the UK Sugar Drink Industry Levy
- 30th May Professor David Taggart
Nuffield Department of Surgical Sciences, University of Oxford
The use of randomized trials to distort best clinical practice
- 6th June Professor Amanda Sacker
International Centre for Lifecourse Studies in Society and Health, UCL
Can measures of biological age tell us anything more than chronological age?
- 13th June Professor Peter Sever
National Heart and Lung Institute, Imperial College London
New ways to lower cholesterol – PCSK9 inhibition and the FOURIER trial
-
-

All welcome

Conveners: Sarah Floud and David Preiss
Email: rdseminars@ndph.ox.ac.uk; Web: www.ndph.ox.ac.uk/rdseminars Twitter: twitter.com/rdseminars